able to make everything for her family.

"It really does help a lot," she said. "I'm a single mom and out of work right now, so it does really come in handy."

A group was volunteering at Friday's distribution from Groton Public Schools' Transition Academy, a program that teaches life skills to students with disabilities between the ages of 18 to 22. The volunteers included paraprofessionals Laurel Berns and Jackie Latham and students Austin Morgan, Alfredo Brown, Diamantis Lenoudias and Joe Joe Jeffreys.

"It makes me feel so happy," Lenoudias said of helping people get ready for their Thanksgiving meal.
